HONOLULU

Located on the south shore of Honolulu, the world-famous neighborhood of Waikiki was once a playground for Hawaiian royalty. Today, Waikiki is Oahu's most eye-catching and a vibrant gateway to tourism from around the world. Waikiki is most famous for its beaches. With Waikiki (Diamond Head) as your backdrop, the calm waves of Waikiki are perfect for surfing lessons. Just a 30-minute drive from The Kahala, Duke Kahanamoku grew up surging the waves of Waikiki. This Olympic gold medalist in swimming actually taught visitors how to surf at the turn of the century and was later known as the “father of modern surfing.”

Today, the Waikiki Beach Boys perpetuate Duke's legacy by teaching visitors how to surf and curry and the Duke Kahanamoku Statue has become an iconic symbol of Waikiki. Attractions of Waikiki like the Honolulu Zoo and the Waikiki Aquarium offer fun for the whole family. With a variety of Oahu attractions including Pearl Harbor; Island of Oahu; the Na'ili'ili Palou, and Hanauma Bay.
